BULLETIN OF CRIME.

AN UNSAVORY BATCH OF MURDER, ROBBERY, AND RIOT.

DES MOINES, IOWA, July 21.—On Sunday evening in Cass county, Fred Mewhelter shot Dr. Hutton through the body, killing him almost instantly. Dr. Hutton was riding in an open buggy with his father. He had been to see a patient. Mewhelter was riding on horseback, and either met or overtook the Doctor, and without saying a word, Mewhelter drew his revolver and fired the ball entering Dr. Hutton's body in the vicinity of the heart. The Doctor fell out of his buggy, backward. Mewhelter dismounted, and, leaning over the prostrate body of his victim, exclaimed, "You beat me in court, but I have beat you at last. If I thought you weren't dead I'd give you another one." This occurred in the presence of Dr. Hutton's father. Mewhelter then mounted his horse and rode to his home, a short distance from the fatal meeting-place.

He informed his wife of what he had done, and then escaped. It is reported that he went to Council Bluffs and gave himself up to the officers. Several months ago Mewhelter sued Dr. Hutton for damages for malpractice, and was defeated. The subject of the malpractice was Mewhelter's wife.

The Commissioners appointed by the Government to locate the new school for feeble-minded children in Illinois are in session in this city. Competition for the prize is very brisk among the more enterprising cities of the State.

LATEST LOCAL.

FIRE was discovered on the fourth floor at 68 East Sixth street, this morning, but was promptly extinguished by the fire without turning in an alarm and before any harm was done, unless it may result in a case of "palpitation" from fright of the inmates of the house.

H. Yon, Esq., of Glenwood, Upshur county, Texas, writes us that the crops in that region of the country are suffering from the effects of a serious drought that has prevailed there for some time past. This, perhaps, may be considered as fair effect for the twenty-four successive days of rain that has prevailed in this region of late.

THE Gift Engine-house, on Sixth street, has been draped in mourning in token of the death of the gallant Holcomb, whose death is so universally mourned, and whose funeral is to occur at that place to-morrow. The different rooms of the building and all parts of the front exhibit the sad tokens of grief, and the engines and hose carriages are also draped in the sable emblems of mourning and sorrow.
